POPE PIUS XI. LEADS SIMPLE FORM OF LIFE

Incessant Work and Regular Exercise With Fifteen Hours Daily Toil

ROME, June 18.—(By Mail.)—The daily life of Pope Pius XI at the Vatican is marked by simplicity, incessant work and regular exercises. He labors from 15 to 16 hours a day; sleeps from six to seven, and plays two hours. His meals are taken while he examines his mail or gives directions to his secretaries. His play consists of a vigorous march seven or eight times around the vatican grounds, making five or six miles and this he does, rain or shine.

His Holiness takes personal charge of the direction of the affairs of the church, assigning the routine to his secretaries. The diplomatic letters which attracted so much attention during the Genoa conference were the personal work of the Holy Father.

He reads and delves into the rich collection of vatican books assiduously. So insistent is he, sometimes, in seeking just the thought he wants that some of the prelates have been compelled to use a "gentle violence" in urging him, when the night has crept far on, to seek repose. His energy astonishes the paper household. Recently, when it was suggested to him that he was working far too hard, Pius XI replied:

"You know that when one is made pope, life is finished. All then is in the hands of God. I will do nothing to preserve my life one day more, but I will work until God says, 'It is enough.'"

The pope rises at 6:30 o'clock every morning and says mass in his private chapel before breakfast, which is at 8 o'clock. This meal consists of coffee with milk, bread and butter. The mail is brought in while he eats, and the Pontiff divides it among his seven secretaries for attention and answers.

At 9 o'clock, Cardinal Gasparri, secretary of state, is received in the papal chamber every day except Tuesday and Friday. On Tuesday Monsignor Borgongini-Duca, the pro-secretary for extraordinary ecclesiastical affairs, is received, and on Friday, Monsignor Pizzardo, the substitute secretary of state. One hour is assigned to each for the discussion of affairs.

At 10 o'clock the pope commences his private audiences, receiving cardinals, bishops, prelates, high civil personages, diplomats and nobles. These conferences last until 1 o'clock, when the public audiences begin. For an hour the Holy Father receives pilgrims, associations and various other organizations who come to Rome to pay homage to him. At 2 o'clock the master of the papal household, Monsignor Caccia-Dominione, is received and places before His Holiness the list of audiences for the succeeding day and asks for their approval.

QUEEN ALEXANDRIA UNUSUALLY ACTIVE

LONDON, June 19.—(By Mail.)—Queen Alexandra, the queen mother, now in her 78th year, is far more active than most women of her age. She might take life far easier than she does, but she evidently is opposed to the idea of being laid on the shelf.

She likes to show herself among the people and she is gratified by the applause with which her appearance is always greeted. Undoubtedly it acts as a sort of psychological tonic upon her and helps her to feel as young as she looks.

She crowns many activities into a day. One day recently she appeared in public at the Cart Horse Parade for prizes in Regent's Park; then at a concert in aid of workshops for disabled soldiers, and finally at the Richmond horse show. But she makes two concessions to advancing years. She seldom goes out of an evening and she goes to bed early, usually playing a game of "Patience" before retiring.

LITTLE WANT AD GETS MIGHTY QUICK RESULTS

A little want ad in the Bonanza got quick results for the owner of a cap on a Buick gasoline tank that was lost yesterday by Matt Reddington. Hardly had the paper been off the press than the Bonanza was notified by Ingalls garage that the cap had been found and the owner was accordingly notified.

VOLGA VALLEY EPIDEMICS TO BE CONTROLLED

Wholesale Inoculation Against Five of Most Widespread and Fatal Diseases

MOSCOW, June 5.—(By Mail.)—What will probably stand for some years to come as a record in the wholesale inoculation against five of the most widespread and most fatal epidemic diseases is now in progress throughout Russia as a part of the program of the medical division of the American relief administration. Ten million individuals are to be inoculated before this program is completed to give them immunity against typhoid, paratyphoid, paratyphoid, cholera and smallpox.

In order for 45,000 ampules of novosivarsan is now in progress of delivery. The drug is being used as a specific against relapsing fever, otherwise known as recurrent typhus which is widely prevalent in the famine district.

Overworked and underfed physicians in the famine districts of the Volga valley, who stuck manfully to their posts during the winter, fighting against almost hopeless odds the sickness and pestilence that the famine engendered, have been granted

Two hundred and fifty families, all of whom claim American citizenship, have made application through the American relief association for aid in getting out of Russia and back to America, either in person or through relatives in the United States.

Seventy-three families already have received the required papers in accordance with the Riga agreement entered into between the American relief association and the soviet government before relief operations were begun. In the case of about 30 families the required formalities for repatriation are nearly completed and their departure from Moscow will be a matter of only a few days.

Moscow is a great student center for European Russia. Its universities, technical and professional educational institutions will have some 30,000 students enrolled. Of this number 4900 are receiving one meal daily in student kitchens under the supervision of the American relief association. The expenses of this feeding are defrayed by the students' friendship fund of America, raised by the American Y. M. C. A.

ed a new lease of life in the delivery of American relief administration food packages, the funds for which were contributed by the joint distribution committee following a special plea by Mr. Herbert Hoover.

American relief administration workers returning from Rybinsk and Jaroslav on the upper portion of the Volga river report that the peasants in that section of the valley are utilizing every moment of daylight to plant the greatest possible amount of seed grain. As the sun does not set until nearly 10 o'clock the peasants' working day is greatly extended and planting is progressing rapidly. In the fields which were planted earlier there is a good stand of grain, and the Russians say that thus far the weather has been most favorable for agriculture, with ample rain to assure a good growth.

Lieutenant J. C. R. Hall, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Hall, of Whitehall, N. Y., is now in command of the American relief association activities at Rybinsk. His working force includes one other American, Lieut. James B. Walsh of New York, and some 500 Russian stevedores and Russian women. His task is to ship 20,000 tons of American corn down the river Volga to Kazan in the heart of the Volga famine area, where America will supply the starving thousands with food until the next harvest.
